As a result, they gave their vote and love to United front which result in a tremendous victory of United Front.

Broad Questions

6 point movement (Explanation and significance)

Background:

From the birth of Pakistan there were huge disparity between East Pakistan and West Pakistan. From economy to education there was huge difference between these two wings. There was 1952's language issue which started the conflict and created a clear image of disparity among the people of East Pakistan. Then throughout the Ayub's era we can see that the discrimination was at its peak. Later on In 1965 there was a war between India and Pakistan which is known as indo-pak war. the core of the war was Pakistan's intervention in Kashmiri. The war Started when Pakistan attempted to take kashmir by force. Though the war was between India and Pakistan but it made a huge impact on East Pakistan as well. During this war East Pakistan was defenseless. There was no Paramilitary force and there were no one to look after our defense. So to the old grievances of economic disparity added complain of negligence and indifference of central government towards the defense of East Pakistan. This Gave Birth to the 6 point programme of the Awami league in March 1966.

Demands:

Sheikh mujib was the main voice behind 6 point programme. Sheikh mujib place his demand In front of a subject committee in lahore. Though it was rejected by the committee But Newspapers of West Pakistan published it.. This made it recognized by all. The 6 points are given below:

1. Pakistan would have a federal structure of government based on the spirit of the Lahore Resolution of 1940, with a parliament elected on the basis of universal adult franchise.

There was a violation of lahore Resolution that promised A federalism And regional autonomy. But In West Pakistan Central government was strengthened and Federalism and regional autonomy was neglected. That's why it was mentioned in the six point movement.

2. The central government would have authority only in defense and foreign affairs and all other subjects would be handled by the federating units of the state of Pakistan.

By this point sheikh Mujib claimed total provincial autonomy except for two matters Which are defense and foreign affairs. He excluded these two issues so that Pakistan can't accuse east Pakistan for any treason.

3. There would be two freely convertible currencies for the two wings of Pakistan.

People of east Pakistan wanted their own currency but it should easily be exchangeable between both of the countries. The reason behind it was simple. Trading between this both country was Happening on a regular basis..so People of East Pakistan wanted to have a exchangeable currency. So that they Can continue their trading without any hassle.

4. The power of taxation and revenue collection would be vested in the federating units.

Previously West Pakistan used to take all of the collected tax. As a result West Pakistan was again developing rapidly. So this demand was made so that The development of both countries stays constant.

5. There would be two separate accounts for foreign exchange reserves for the two wings of Pakistan.

Previously the money of foreign exchange was stored in West Pakistan. As a result only west Pakistan was developing. On the other hand we were exporting different goodies but the revenues were going to West Pakistan. Because of this reason Sheikh mujib introduced this point to Remove domination of west Pakistan from the economic sectors of east Pakistan.

6. East Pakistan would have a separate militia or paramilitary force as a measure towards ensuring its security.

The last point of this programme was about our separate para military force. the only reason behind this demand was that our boarder was very defenseless. So for the Safety of our country We needed separate militia or para military force.

Importance and conclusion:

The imprisonment of Sheikh mujib and other top awami league leaders in 1966 couldn't diminish the Fire of 6 point programme. It was one of the most important movements. The points were clear, easy to understand and most importantly they were the true image of the feelings of Bengalis. this was the first time a Bengali shouted and asked for their political and national rights. Bangabandhu's move raised howls of protest all over Pakistan. 6 point movement Is widely regarded as the "Charter of freedom" for the people of Bangladesh. It has been credited as the stepping stone of liberation war. Because of the 6 point movement the popularity of sheikh mujib was increased. That created unsecured position for central government for west Pakistan. So central government became desperate to stop sheikh mujib. So they came up with agortala conspiracy case to defame sheikh mujib. The whole case was false that's why they couldn't prove it. But Sheikh mujib along with 35 other political leaders were arrested. But at the same time there was a anti ayub movement going on. So when Pakistan couldn't prove the case sheikh mujib came out free that turned anti ayub movement to mass upsurge. As a result ayub khan resigned and yahya khan came to the power. To gain control over the protesting Bengalis he announced to give a election. Which was know as general election of 1970. This became the final trademark for the liberation war. For all this reason 6 point movement played an important role in our quest of liberation. Sheikh mujib and Awamileague frame the 6 point movement So perfectly that it put an end to the internal colonial rule of west Pakistan and it proclaimed for attaining greater autonomy.

Economic Development Of Bangladesh

There has been drastic development in the education, health and economic sector over the years.

After the liberation war, the education, health and economic system was fully devastated. But the government of Bangladesh that came into power afterwards attempted to develop the health, education and economic system. The annual GDP growth rate was minus 13.97 percent. It was no surprise given that the country had experienced a nine month long war. Not only that, in 1974, it experienced a devastating flood, followed by a famine that took the lives of at least a million. Since independence, tropical cyclones have wrecked the country many times, some with deadly impact. For example, in 2009 because of the cyclone it caused irreparable damage to the sundarbans, the largest mangrove forest in the world. The country also had to endure some external economic shocks through the period too. This includes the debt crisis of the 1980s and Asian financial crisis in 1997 and many others.

But even after all these governments who came into power started to solve these problems. Significant progresses have been made in increasing access in education, reduction of dropouts and implementation of a number of quality enhancement in the primary education. The constitution of BD has provided free and compulsory primary education.

Bangladesh has been successfully able to reach the MDGs related to the education sector. The primary enrollment rate and completion has increased from 80% to 98% just within 15 to 16 years. More than 20000 additional classrooms have been constructed in remote and underprivileged areas to reduce overcrowding in schools. The passing rate in the Secondary School has also increased. The introduction of the polytechnic institutions has increased the number of skilled students. Around 1.5 lac diploma students graduate from more than hundred different polytechnic institutions. Moreover, the BD research and education network dedicated high speed internet connectivity for education and research is fully functional in 35 different public and private universities.

Then, there is the health sector. The health system mainly included traditional healers and other informal and unqualified providers. In 1979, the government has established its Expanded program of immunization to fight vaccine-preventable morbidity and mortality and initiative that was praised by UNICEF for its significant achievements. In 1990, the government launched a national level primary health care to provide a health complex for every upazila and general hospital facility for each district.

The under five mortality rate which was 151 per 1000 live births in 1990 came down to 41 per 1000 live births in 2013. The infant mortality rate also came down from 94 per 1000 in 1990 to 32 per 1000 in 2013.

According to maternal mortality survey, maternal mortality decreased from 322 in 2001 to 194 in 2010. Furthermore, in the last two decades, the overall population of births attended by skilled health personal increased by more than 8 times.

Prevalence of HIV/AIDS in BD is less than 0.1% and is still below an epidemic level. Significant development has been made in fighting malaria.

Then there is the economic sector. The economy of BD was in a very bad situation but then the government came and the economy of BD started to have a significant growth in all her sectors. Some of them are:

Rice is one of the most demanding crop in BD. The other main is wheat which quickly gained its popularity among growers and the country was close to achieving good food sufficiency. By 2000, agriculture 25.5% to the GDP.

In 1990, BD was exporting 0.64 billion dollar worth of garments per year which increased to 4.86 billion by 2009 and 11 billion by 2009.

Bangladesh has done a great job in educating poverty and hunger. BD has already fulfilled one of the indicators of target 1 by bringing down the poverty gap ratio to 6.5 against 2015 target of 8.

Overall, BD has done a excellent job in achieving the MDGs.

Challenges of SMR:

1. ECONOMY:

After the war, the economic situation of the country was very poor. IN 1969-70, the most recent normal year, per capita annual income was taka 450. While the economy was underdeveloped to begin with, the destruction of 1971 was extensive. A UN report estimated the reconstruction in Bangladesh at 938 million dollar. SMR faced three fold problem of providing immediate relief to the returning refugees, reconstructing the economic infrastructure back to 1969-70 level and planning for a socialist economy in Bangladesh.

2. CONSTITUTION:

It was a great challenge to make the constitution of Bangladesh. As the constitution is the political framework of a country, it was needed to reform the framework. Moreover, a constitution was must to ensure stable governance and bring discipline to society.

3. RECOGNITION:

One of the major challenges of Sheikh Mujib was to get international recognition as the country just got liberated; it was must to get recognition from different countries around the world. Within a year of independence BD has been recognized by 97 countries and had become a member of several international bodies like WHO, UNESCO, World Bank etc.

4. REHABILITATION OF REFUGEES:

During the liberation war around 1 billion refugees took shelter in India and after that it was a great challenge for the then government to bring back this huge number of refugees in the country. Besides that it was also important to ensure the fundamental rights to them.

SUCCESS OF SMR:

1. WRITING THE CONSTITUTION:

The first success that SMR government achieved was the quick construction of the constitution. To make the constitution Government formed a team of 34 members along with Law Minister Dr.Kamal. Among the South-Asian countries Bangladesh was a country to construct the constitution just within 6 months whereas India and Pakistan took more than a year to form constitution.

2. GETTING RECOGNITION FROM INTERNATIONAL ORGANISATIONS:

Bangladesh was able to get the recognition as independent country during the reign of SMR. International organizations like UN commonwealth, OIC and also from Pakistan as well gave Bangladesh recognition as independent country.

3. REHABILITATION OF REFUGEES:

Bangladesh was able to rehabilitate 10 million refugees who took shelter in India. UN helped Bangladesh by giving relief and it was a major success during the SMR reign to rehabilitate such big number of refugees.

4. SENDING BACK INDIAN TROOPS:

After coming back to country SMR took initiative to send back the Indian troops. As it was diplomatic decision, send back the Indian army and He was successful sending back the army just within 1 month.

FAILURE OF SMR:

1. SOLVE THE PROBLEM WITH JASHOD:

- When Jashod became politically strong and became a threat for Awami League, SMR failed to handle that properly. He used "rokkhibahini" who were attacking the opposite party illegally.

2. LACK OF ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT:

- Although the economy made some progress during his reign, the performance was very poor throughout the first decade. The average annual growth rate was 1.88 percent which was very poor for the economy of the country.

3. TO CONTROL RAKKHI BAHINI:

- Rakhibahini was introduced to bring discipline to the society but they actually attacked anyone who is a potential threat to Awami League. It was criticized by people .

4. CONTINUE DEMOCRACY:

5. ELECTION OF 1973 :

- In the election of 1973 , though awami league won ,there was evidence that awami league sabotaged the election.

Making process of the constitution :

In the first press conference in Dacca Mujib promise the people and early constitution. Of course the making process of constitution will take time so in the mean time he applied two terms to gain control over the newly independent country. Those two terms were proclamation of independence and provincial constitution of Bangladesh. After that govt. made a constitution drafting committee on 10th April which was headed by law minister Dr. Kamal Hossain the committee was form with 35 members. Some main objectives of the committee was : writing constitution in bangla , no law can be passed which create violation in bangladesh etc. On the 17th April this committee did the first meeting . The committee made it obvious that it would draft the constitution quickly. One of the reason for this eargency was that the govt. wanted to avoid the tragic experiences of the Pakistan period. When the delay in constitution making lead to the loss of legitimacy of muslim league govt. The other reason behind this urgency was that the awami league govt. wanted to provide a basic political frame work according to its own preferences before serious controversies could arise over the fundamentals of the constitution . Dr. Kamal Hossain went to India to see how the parliamentary form of govt. works . After the tour he submitted the draft as a bill in the 2nd session of the constituent assembly on 12th October .Then the constitution was revised severa times by the assembly . According to the revision 65 amendments were accepted . In the 3rd meeting of the assembly the constitution bill was accepted on 4th November . It took six months to complete the constitution . From 16th December of 1972 the constitution became effective which is exactly one year after the liberation of Bangladesh .

State principals:

1.Nationalism:

Nationalism represented an assertion by the people of their identity, which evolved during the course of its historical struggle into the right to their language, culture, traditions and history .Nationalism is included in the constitution because it is the land of the Bengali speaking people and bengalis will be ruling themselves and it is also one way of showing respect to the martyrs of 1971.

2.Democracy:

Democracy expressed the long-suppressed desire of the people to govern themselves to guide their own destiny. they looked ahead to a new dawn after the long night of terror and torture that they had suffered under colonial rule and the military dictatorships that had been imposed on them. The struggle to establish democracy still continues subsequent events were to undermine democracy and subject the people, once again, to the oppression of a military dictatorship.

3. Secularism:

Secularism stands for the rejection of communalism in all its forms and of the abuse of the religion for political purposes. We Bengali people had seen the worst crimes committed in the name of Islam. The principal of secularism was to maintain a separation between the state and religion and to create an environment in which all religious communities would coexist in harmony, free from discrimination and religious intolerance. Specifically,

The principal of secularism shall be realized by the elimination of –

- a. Communalism in all its forms
- b. granting by the state of political status in favour of any religion
- c. abuse of religion for political purposes
- d. discrimination against, persecution of persons practicing a particular religion.

4. socialism

Socialism reflected the commitment to create a just and equal society; a society in which there would be no exploitation, and in which equality of opportunity would be assured. The vision of an independent Bangladesh, which had inspired the freedom fighters was of a society which would be free from exploitation. They were quite clear that, having freed themselves from the infamous '22 families' of Pakistan, they were not going to create '22 families' to take their place in BD.
