

DEV 101

Pre Muslim Phase

Delta Formation

Gradual deposition of fine soil particle at the mouth of the river. The landmass took the shape as Greek later delta. That is why it is known as delta formation. The land that forms because of the deposition of silt by mighty rivers is called Delta. Every spring the mountain snow melts and the icy water sweeps along particles of soil forming into rivers that rush to the sea. As the rivers reach lowlands, they slow down and deposit those particles building up a Delta.

Himalaya

Bangladesh is the flattened out land of Himalaya. Himalayas control the annual rainfall and protect the cold wind from the north. Almost all rivers of Bangladesh came down from the Himalayas.

Janapadas

The ancient Janapadas (400BC-600AD) were named after the non-Aryan ethnic groups who inhabited the areas.

Janapadas	Areas
1. Pundra	Dinajpur, Bogra
2. Varendra	Rajshahi
3. Vanga	Dhaka, Tangail
4. Vangal	Barisal, Coastal Areas
5. Samatata	Comilla, Noakhali
6. Harikela	Chittagong, Sylhet
7. Gauda	Chapainawabganj

These 1-7 people are known as non-aryans or janapadas. Two other groups also settled in Bengal whose language was Dravidian and Tribeto-burman. The existence of the janapadas is known from the later Vedic literature.

Earlier Civilization (City Centers)

1. Pandu Rajar Dhibi: It is in the Valley of Ajay River (near Bolpur) in the Burdhan district & one of the famous Arians invention in Gangetic plain. Terracotta plaques are found in here. It represents the ruin of trading township.

2. Wari Bhatteshwar: It is located in Narasingdi. It is double city (it has two walls). It was the first human civilization. Here the archaeologist found punch mark, coins, hole beads which is similar to Greek civilization. From these things it can be assumed that we had good relationship with the Greek civilization.

3. Mahasthangar: It's located in Bagura & old name Pundranagar. It is the second human civilization found by the archaeologists. It refers the existence of urban administrative and cultural centre throughout the ancient period. The fragmentary Brahmi inscription which was sent by the Delhi ruler Asoka to the province ruler of Bengal. This inscription refers to relief measures such as distribution of paddy and money during the time of natural calamities. This shows that at that time they have mutual respect between the administration and people.

Gupta Rule

The period of imperial Gupta is generally considered the golden age of Indian History. Founder of the gupta is Samudragupta.

2. Economic prosperity (Gupta coins).
3. Efficient administration and Political stability.
4. Noteworthy trade and commerce.
5. Religious toleration (Brahmanism, Buddhism and Jainism).

Sasanka

Sasanka was a strong anti-Buddhist Hindu emperor who is known as the first independent king of Bengal. He came to power in the first half of 6th century and spreaded his kingdom to Gauda and Magadha. His capital was Karnasuvarna (present Rangamati) which was six miles away from Murshidabad. He introduced two coins which proved that Bengal was economically developed under him. This coin had 2 parts there is a picture of Shiva which proves that he was the follower of Shiva. On the other part of the coin Sasanka was sitting on a bull which shows his strength.

Matsyanyayam

Due to lawlessness for 100 years (650AD-750AD) and absence of powerful ruling emperors, law punishment was kept under abeyance. The period is known as Matsyanyayam which in Sanskrit means the larger fish swallows the smaller one for absence of law enforcing authority. Matsyanyayam was started after the reign of Sasanka and ended by Gopala.

Pala Dynasty

The rule of the Palas formed a glorious chapter in the history of ancient Bengal. It was founded by Gopala & Ruled by 18 generation kings for 400 years. Palas were Buddhist.

Reasons behind ruling for 400 years:

1. Powerful administration.
2. Included general people in administrative work.
3. Religious tolerance.
4. No caste system.

Achievements:

1. Developed architectural art (e.g. Somapura Mahavihara)

- * Failed to maintain power over Kanauj
- * Extended his kingdom towards Orissa.

4. Mahipala I (995-1043):

- * Gave the second life to Pala Dynasty
- * Brought back the lost territories.

5. Mahipala II (1075-1080):

- * Lost against Samantas
- * Weakness in central authority.

6. Ramapala (1082-1124):

- * Last known Pala ruler
- * Successfully regained Pala authority in northern part.

Sena Dynasty

Vijayasena (1097-1160AD) was the founder of Sena dynasty. He was a Hindu ruler who emerged as a feudatory ruler during the rule of Ramapala. Senas were Hindus. They ruled for more than 100 years. They were 5 generation of rulers. Their Capital was Vikramapura. They introduced Caste system.

Achievements of Sena Dynasty:

1. Establishment of Hinduism
2. Brought Bengal under one unified rule
3. Enhanced Sanskrit literature
4. Artistic achievement in sculptural art

Some notable Kings of Sena Dynasty:

1. Vijayasena (1097-1160): Ousted the Varmans and the Palas.
2. Vallalasena (1160-1178): Introduced Caste System.

Differentiate between the Pala and Sena Dynasty

Pala Dynasty	Sena Dynasty
18 eneration kings	5 generation kings
Palas were Buddhists	Senas were Hindus
No caste system	Introduced caste system
Ruled 400 years	Ruled more than 100 years
Developed Pali literature	Developed Sanskrit literature

Muslim Phase

Ikhtiyar-Ud-Din Muhammad Bin Bakhtiyar Khilji

Ikhtiyar-Ud-din Muhammad was a Turkish general who came to India for better living. He was the Vice Roy of Qutub-ud-Din Ibeg. He invaded Bengal with only 17 cavalry. Hearing the news, Lakshmansena fled to his capital Vikramapura. Without any resistance he conquered Bengal and later on spreaded his kingdom to Nadia. Thus the foundation of Muslim rule was established in Bengal and they ruled for 500 years. Ikhtiar-ud-Din issued a gold coin commemorating the conquest of Gaur inscribed in Arabic and Sanskrit.

Firuz Shah

He conquered Sonargaon and Mymensingh with the help of Ghazis (Volunteer for Jihad). He founded the city of Firuzabad-Padua, the later capital of Bengal. He helped Hazrat Shah Jalal to conquer Sylhet with moral and material accompanied by 313 disciples. Ibn Batuta made his visit in Bengal at the time of his reign.

Fakruddin Mubarak shah was the first independent Muslim ruler.

Shams ud-Din Ilyas Shah

He issued one coin. He shifted capital from Lakhnawati to Pandua in Malda district. He united all Bengal under one crown. He showed military skill both to repel and defeat. He Patron of Bengali Language and Literature. He also constructed the famous Adina Mosque at Pandua, the largest mosque of Indian Subcontinent. During his dynasty Muslim arts, science flourished and commerce in Bengal's textiles and foodstuffs was encouraged.

Ghiyas Ud-din Azam Shah

He ruled from 1389-1420. He was the successor of Sikandar Shah. He sent large amount of money to holy places in Hijaz. He exchanged envoys with the Chinese emperor. He also invited Hafiz (famous Persian poet) to his court at Pandua.

Jalal ud-Din Muhammad Shah

He was the son of powerful Hindu chief Ganesh who had been converted to Islam and won the throne of Bengal. He contributed in constructing a religious institution in Mecca. He established relation with Egyptian ruler. He also issued coins from Pandua, Chittagong, Sonargaon, Satgaon and Faridpur. Besides he constructed The Eklakhi mausoleum in Pandua.

Husain Shahi Dynasty

The Husain Shahi dynasty is known as the Golden age of Bengal, founded by Ala Ud-Din Husain Shah. He built many mosques and magnificent buildings at Gaur and Pandua. Hindus were employed in higher posts during his time. He also constructed Chhota Sona Masjid at Gaur. Ala Ud-Din Husain Shah and his son and successor Nasir ud-Din Nusrat Shah were the patron of Bengali language and literature. A mosque at Bagha in Rajshahi as well as Qadam Rasul Mosque was built. He had a stable of 914 war elephants. Later on the Afghan adventurer Sher Shah Suri ended the dynasty by defeating Sultan Mahmud Shah brother of Nasir ud-Din Nusrat Shah.

Sher Shah

Sher Shah Suri was an Afghan adventurer who defeated the troops of Humayun. He constructed the Grand Trunk Road from Bengal to Peshawar (Bangladesh to Pakistan) and introduced administrative reforms and modernized tax collection. He also introduced a postal system by using horses in Bengal for the first time which was known as Ghorar Daak.

Bara Bhuyyan

Bara Bhuyyan were the former Zaminders , governors and landlords of Bengal with strong Military power. They were led by Isa Khan. Bara Bhuiyan fought against the Mughal because they denied giving taxes and the Mughal tried to capture the Bengal. For that is why Bara Bhuyyan fought against the Mughal. Isa Khan, Masum Khan, Kedar Rai, Raja Pratapadityya, Kandarpanarayan etc were known as Bara Bhuyyan.

British Period

Battle of Palashi

The Battle of Palashi can be described skirmish from military point of view. Basically at that time people were not aware the revolutionary change was being taken place. In the end the battle of Palashi was a failure due to not having the proper organization at that right moment and also right leadership. That's why the Battle of palashi may not be said to have been a decisive battle.

In 23rd June 1757, Nawab Siraj-ud-dowla was defeated at the battle of palashi by the English General Robert Clive due to the betrayal of his aunt Ghoseti begum, General Mir Zafar and the conspiracy of Hindu landlords Jagat Seth, Umi Chand, Roy Durlov, Raj Ballabh, Manikchand, Yar Latif etc. The success of this battle helped Robert Clive to lay the foundation of the British Empire in India.

Reason for the Battle:

1. British didn't give gift to Siraj-ud-dowla when he succeeded Alivardi Khan.
2. Greed of power of British East India Company.
3. Frequent breaking laws by British East India Company.
4. Shah Suja allowed the British to do business in Bengal as British doctors cured him. Siraj-ud-dowla didn't agree with the prince Shah Suja trade policy. He ordered British East India Company to take permission from him to do business. But the British didn't bother. So that influenced Nawab to take revenge against British.

Reason behind failure:

1. Betrayal of Chief Generals
2. Palace conspiracy
3. Rainfall damaged the arms
4. Young age of Siraj-ud-dowla
5. Unorganized army

Results:

1. It established a strong foundation of British East India Company in Bengal and the sun of Bengal independence lay down for 200 years.
2. It ended the ruling period of independent Nawab and Sultan.

Battle of Boxar

After the battle of Palashi Mirzafar became the Nawab of Bengal and had to give huge money for the expenditure. The British found out that Mir Zafar was useless and Mir Quasim was elected as Nawab. Mir Quasim was Mir Zafar's Son-in-law. He wanted to increase vat/tax and the British became angry. Thus battle of Boxer occurred. Mughal Emperor Shah Alam II joined forces with Mir

Quasim. It was the last battle where Bengal Emperors could show real courage on the battle field. Mir Qasim was defeated and British supremacy was established. This happened in the next battle called the battle of buxar. After the battle of Buxar the local leaders lost. Then Robert Clive got in charge to collect the tax from the mass. This started the dual system.

Dual System

Dual System was basically imposed in favour of collecting tax. In this system the company appointed two people to collect the revenue. Those people were selected, one from local people and another from The British East India Company. Both people were known as Dewan. The local person had the responsibility to collect tax and the british person had the power for controlling administration, judiciary, rules, laws and regulation. And this system was known as dual system.

Reason behind introducing dual system:

1. Collecting revenue from the local people as well as other countries traders.
2. First of all, language problem was the main reason for the British people as they were not habituated with this language and culture.
3. Man power problem.

Famine of (1769-1772)

Reasons:

1. Back to back flood and other natural calamities.
2. Excessive amount of tax collection.
3. Restoring foods and goods by British employers.
4. Bankrupt.

Impacts:

1. One-Third of people died.
2. Withdraw of Dual System.
3. Introducing "Regulating Act of 1773" for India.
4. Introducing "Permanent Settlement Act".

Permanent Settlement Act

This law was introduced by Lord Cornwallis. According to the permanent settlement act the land become the personal property of the Zaminders. They will hold their land as long as they can by paying taxes to the British. The Zaminders were allowed to sell, donate and whatever they want. But the Zaminders were bound to pay taxes to the British before the sunset on the last day of Bengali year. Otherwise they had to lose their lands. This was known as "Sun Set Law".

Reason: Before this law the lands of Zaminders were changed after a short period. So they did not focus on development rather than only taking the benefit from the land as much as they can. This law was introduced to focus the Zaminders in development works as well as thinking for the welfare of the farmers.

Results:

1. Many Zaminders lost their land.
2. An elite class people came out who were known as "Bania class people".
3. A loyal class of Zaminder came out.
4. Frequent peasant movements taken place.
5. Farmers were deprived from their land rights.

Some of the Movements in Nineteenth Century

1. Fakir –Sannyasi movement (1760-1800)
2. Titu Mir's Movement (1831)
3. Faraizi Movement (1837)
4. Santal Movement (1855-1856)
5. Sepoy Movement (1857)
6. Indigo Revolt (1858-1862)

1st partition of Bengal (1905)

In 1905 Lord Curzon divided Bengal into two province which were almost equal sized. One was West Bengal and Bihar and other of Eastern Bengal and Assam.

Reasons:

1. Administrative convenience
2. Political benefit through divide-and-rule policy
3. Socio and economic development for Muslims.

Reaction of Hindu: Hindus did not support the partition because they believe that Calcutta had been the capital of the countries, if they divide the Bengal there will be another capital for Muslims. If that happened then the Muslims will be equal to them and they will no longer be the superior race. Moreover some of the Hindu Landlord's lands were in Eastern Bengal but they were in Calcutta. So Zaminders like Rabindranath Tagore were strongly opposed the partition.

Reaction of Muslims: Muslims temporary opposed because the Hindu dominated areas had the developed parts and structures. Later they accepted the partition Nawab Sir Salimullah guided them properly and the new provincial government appointed a large number of Muslims in new post in the provincial and subordinate services.

Results:

1. Muslims left Congress and they formed Muslim League with their elites.
2. Protest of Hindus and other royal classes lead the British to annul the partition.

Swadeshi Movement

Reasons:

1. 1st partition of Bengal
2. Calcutta centered administration and economic structured
3. Influence of some aristocratic personnel (Rabindranath Tagore)
4. Having more opportunity of Job and Education for Muslims made the Hindus jealous.
5. Hindu thought that they were behind in culture, education, Job sectors and so on.

Impacts:

1. Annulment of 1911.
2. Emergence of Samitis.
3. Muslims were separated from national politics.
4. Indian Nationalism created among people.
5. Brought out a significant revival of in handloom silk weaving and some other traditional crafts.

Annulment of Bengal Partition (1911)

Reasons:

1. Hindus opposed it as Dhaka was the new capital and Chittagong port was opened.
2. British found it's better to listen to the Hindus as they were the majority
3. Zaminders, landlords were also opposed it.

KPP

AK Fazlul Haque found that Congress and Muslim League are dominated by elite Hindus and Muslims. Common people were depriving of their opportunity of politics. So, he formed Krishok – Proja Party for the common lower class people which quickly became popular. His tagline was "Daal-Bhat for all" which was very catchy.

Election of 1937

1. Congress: 52
2. Muslim League: 39
3. KPP: 36 (33 from Bengal)

AK Fazlul Haque was proposed to be the governor of Calcutta but he refused the proposal.

Lahore resolution

Lahore resolution was a formal political statement adopted by the All-India Muslim League on the occasion of its three-day general session in Lahore on March 22–24, 1940. It called for the creation of "independent states" for Muslims in north western and eastern of British India. The resolution was presented by A K Fazlul Haque, the Prime Minister of Bengal.

Two Nation Theory

Two Nation Theory was introduced by Muhammad Ali Jinnah which states that British India will be divided according to the majority of Hindu and Muslims. He proposed "Independent States" for Muslim in northwestern and eastern of British India. Later on, based on this theory India Pakistan and India got independence in 14th and 15th August 1947.

Famine of 1943

Reasons:

1. Beginning of Second World War in 1939
2. Destroying 60,000 boats by British Army
3. Miscommunication and uneven distribution of food supply.
4. Selling foods in a high rate by British

Effects:

1. 2nd greatest famine in Bengal
2. Around 150,000 people died
3. Congress and Muslim League leaders raised their voice against the British.

Lord Mountbatten was the last governor general of British India. He submitted the power 14th August 1947 to Pakistan and 15th August 1947 to India. That's how two independent countries Pakistan and India were born.

Pakistan Period

Pakistan was conceived on 14 August. A separation of 1500 miles of adversary soil made land boundaries in the middle of East and West Pakistan.

Difference between East and West Pakistan:

1. Ethnic build up
2. Language
3. Tradition
4. Culture
5. Social behavior pattern
6. Economic activity

Seven steps lead us to gain our independence. Which are:

1. Language movement (1952)
2. Jukto Front Elections (1954)
3. Anti-Ayub Movement (1958-1968)
4. 6 points movement (1966)
5. Mass upsurge movement (1969)
6. General Election (1970)
7. Liberation War (1971)

Language Movement in 1952

Urdu will be the state language – it was first declared by Mohammad Ali Jinnah, governor-general of Pakistan. When students in East Pakistan came to know about the plan to make Urdu as a National language they held meetings and demonstration and then formed first language action committee in 1947. Then again the new prime minister of Pakistan, Khwaja Nazimuddin, came to Dhaka and declared that only Urdu will be the state language. Students responded it with very angry reaction and the students of Dhaka University and the number of organization called a Protest meeting. The meeting sharply rejected the decision and called a general strike on 21st February 1952. The government imposed a ban on this strike and imposed curfew. But that couldn't be able to stop the students. Students from all institutions gathered together in the premises of Dhaka University and then started marching and shouting slogans. The campus gates were armed with policemen and when they passed the campus gate police used tear gases and fired into the crowd. For that many were injured and 5 people including a 9 years old boy were killed. Over the next few days more killing and arrest occurred.

Cause:

1. Regional: two wings of Pakistan were separated with each other by 1500km and that is why poor people of East Pakistan cannot go to West Pakistan for better life style.
2. Employment: if Urdu is the state language then the people who speak only in Bangla they can get job and unemployment rate will be increased.
3. Democracy: about 65% people talk in Bengali so that the state language should be Bengali.
4. Cultural identity: Bengali culture will be lost if Urdu is become the state language.

Result:

1. Rise of Bengali nationalism.

2. Formation of united front (after the language movement Muslim league lost their pride and united front was rise as a new hope for the Bengali people).
3. Bengali has got recognition in constitution of 1952 as a state language.

Jukto front/United Front

United Front was formed by Maulana Abdul Hamid Khan Vasani. Jukto front which consisted of 4 parties from the East Pakistan are:

1. Krishak Sramik Party
2. Awami Muslim League
3. Nizam-e-Islami
4. Gonotontri Dol

The main purposes of United Fronts were that there were no strong political party and that's why they formed this United Front to fight against the Muslim League. In 1954 the Pakistani govt. called for an election and the main purpose of the election was to elect a new president. At that election Awami Muslim league got maximum vote rather than Muslim league. Reason behind the win Jukto front was because the total individual parties supporter came together to support one party which made them to get the majority vote.

Marshal Law administration (1958)

Iskandar Mirza was the leader of this. The reason of this was rivalries between the politician & immediate humiliation of Shahed Ali who was the deputy speaker and he was physically assaulted by the KSP members. This resulted the rise of dictatorship.

Basic Democracies Order (BDO)

The basic definition of BDO is to elect president and there will be 40000 people from the East Pakistan and 40000 people from West Pakistan will be elected by the local people and this 80000 people will elect the president of Pakistan. Based on this BDO in 1962 AIUB Khan formed another constitution. 1962- Ayub Khan formed the 2nd constitution. By this time he legalized BDO.

Student Movement (1962)

Ayub Khan make change in the constitution of 1962 in the education system.

Reasons:

1. Tuition fees increased
2. Number of passing marks increased
3. Extra one year was added to complete the graduation.

Result:

1. Ayub Khan again change the constitution because of the Student Movement.
2. Other movement such as 6 points inspired from the success of this movement.

Six Points Movement (1966)

In 1966 Sheikh Mujibur Rahman for the first time introduced the historical six points.

1. Federation as per Lahore Resolution
2. All powers except defense and foreign policy to the federated units.
3. Separate but easily exchangeable currency for each unit.
4. Federated unit to have the power of taxation.
5. Separate accounts on foreign exchange and earnings

6. Separate paramilitary for each unit.

Causes:

1. Demand of autonomy
2. Economic disparity between the two wings
3. Indo Pakistan war 1965

Results:

1. Rise of popularity of Sheikh Mujibar Rahman
2. Movement in favor of 6 points and subsequent movement inspired the independence war.

Agartala Conspiracy Case

The Agartala conspiracy case was instituted in January 1968 and total 28 Persons were arrested in this conspiracy case which included 6 Bengali civil servants and military personnel. Sheikh Mujib was already in prison and he was charged with master minding conspiracy. In the trail of the case government side they brought the charge of high treason for involvement in secessionist conspiracy with India but at the end the tribunal couldn't establish their claim. Then in 1969, 22 January Sheikh Mujib and other opposition leaders got released from the case due to the mass upsurge.

Mass upsurge Movement (1969)

This movement was also known as Anti- Ayub movement. When the most populist politicians still in the jail the anti regime movement began to show signs of indolence. In 1969 student action committee came out with eleven points that contained all shades of opinion and ideology which was incorporated with the six point program. Those eleven points mainly included

1. Demand for reformation of educational system
2. Adequate wages for working class
3. Reduction of land taxes for the peasantry
4. Withdrawal of Agartala Conspiracy case &
5. Release of sheikh Mujib and other political prisoners.

In 20 January of 1969 student leader Asad was killed & an all-out student movement quickly turned into violent Anti-Ayub movement. Slogan like Jay Bangla, Bir Bangali Astra Dharo, and Bangladesh shadhin karo became popular. This student led movement which received only peripheral support from the political parties and also got support from all normal classes of people. Under these student pressure most of the basic Democrats resigned and at the end AYUB khan resigned from the President post and Yahya Khan became Chief.

Causes:

1. Unpopularity of Ayub Khan
2. Harassment of politician
3. Arrest of Mujib on Agartala Conspiracy case
4. Oppressive region.

Result:

1. Fall of Ayub Khan and rise of Yahya Khan
2. Introduction of Legal Framework order by Yahya Khan that he promised that a election will be held.

The election of 1970

Yahya khan held the first general election in Pakistan on the basis of adult franchise. From the east Bengal Sheikh Mujibar Rahman and from the west Bengal Julfikar ali Vutto stand for election and Mujib won the election. Sheikh Mujibur Rahman won 167 seats of 169 allotted for East Pakistan. Vutto could not accept Mujib as a Prime Minister so he delayed the counselling's assembly.

Result:

1. Awami League emerged as a Victorian League.
2. Non – cooperation movement started.

Liberation War of 1971

Operation Search Light

The Pakistan army was ordered to launch an operation on Bengali people at midnight of 25th March. This was termed as Operation Searchlight. Two headquarters were established for the operation. Major General Rao Farman Ali was responsible for operation in Dhaka and its suburbs while Major General Khadim Raja was responsible for the operation of the rest of the province. Lieutenant General Tikka Khan was the overall in charge of the operation. About 50,000 people were killed within first three days from 25th March. The most affected places were EPR at Pilkhana the headquarters of the East Pakistan Rifles, Police Headquarters at Rajarbag, Ansar Headquarters at Khilgaon, Dhaka University, Jagannath Hall (DU), Temple at Ramna Park, Shankhari Bazar & Tanti Bazar.

Sheikh Mujib was prisoned on 26th march by Pakistan Army. In 27th March, 1971 Major Ziaur Rahman announced the Independent of Bangladesh on behalf of Sheikh Mujibur Rahman through Kalurghat Radio station, Chittagong.

Governance

Governance: Governance is the process of decision making and the process of implementing those laws. It emphasizes on the formal and informal actors involve in decision making and its implementation.

Good Governance: People are included in the choice making procedure. The people who are influenced by the choice making procedure are known as the performing artists of the govt. The govt. is the normal performing artist in the choice making methodology. At the point when one takes a choice including all the performers it is called good governance.

Components of Good Governance: Good governance has four components which are:

❖ Accountability: It ensures the power of asking the answer from an official. Effective accountability has two features which are:

- ✓ Answerability
- ✓ Consequences

Where answerability is the requirement to respond to questions and having a proper answer is consequences.

❖ Transparency: It states for the easy access of information. The provided information should have to be relevant and understandable.

❖ Predictability: Predictability is about fair and consistence application of laws, regulations and implementation of government policies.

❖ Participation: it refers to involvement of general people in the developing process of a country. It promotes by:

- ✓ Encouraging the participation of project beneficiaries and affected groups.

- ✓ Improving the interface between the public and private sectors
- ✓ Using NGO's as vehicles to mobilize and reach the project

Indicators of good governance:

- ❖ Rule of Law: legal framework should be fair and enforces impartially particularly the laws on human rights.
- ❖ Responsiveness: Institutions and process try to serve all stakeholders
- ❖ Consensus Orientation: good governance requires mediation of the different interests in society to reach a broad consensus in society on what is the best interest whole community and how can be achieved.
- ❖ Equality: All men and women have opportunities to improve or maintain their well-being.
- ❖ Effectiveness and Efficiency: Good governance means that process and institutions produce results that meet the needs of society while making the best use of resources at their disposal.
- ❖ Strategic Vision: The leaders need to have a broad and long term vision on good governance and human development along with a sense of what is needed for such development. They also need to understand the historical, cultural and social complexities what that perspective is grounded.

Components of Poor Governance:

- ❖ Arbitrary policy making system: This system denies people's participation or their right to choose what they actively need.
- ❖ Unaccountable: Bureaucrats are never found to be accountable in poor governance.
- ❖ Unjust legal system: If justice is delayed then justice is denied. This type of legal system can never offer a remedy to the aggrieved person rather it creates unrest in the society.
- ❖ Abuse of political power: In poor governance, the political leaders always interfere in matters where they do not need to or supposed to.
- ❖ No bridge between civil society and the public like: The civil society remains indifferent to the public.
- ❖ Corruption: Corruption is not primarily a problem of bad people, but an outcome of a bad system, which prevails; in poor governance.

Obstacles in front of Bangladesh towards Good Governance:

➤ Lack of Political Accountability: Those holding political workplaces of the state must be responsible to the natives for their activities. There ought to be proper check and adjust inside the political framework with the goal that no extension of the administration overwhelms and controls others.

➤ Dominant Executive: Political institutions in Bangladesh over the years indicate a growing trend to strengthen and consolidate all powers in the office of the chief executive.

➤ Weak Legislature: The consequence of concentrating enormous powers in the hands of the chief executive over the year has resulted in gradual and systematic weakening of the position of the parliament. A number of factors have however considerably weakened the parliament's control over the executive. These are:

- ✓ The inexperience of the majority of legislator.
- ✓ The reluctance of the government to subject itself to debate.
- ✓ The tendency of the opposition to oppose for the sake of opposing.
- ✓ Uncertainties concerning appropriate procedures resulting in part from the absence of institutional traditions.

❖ Nature and Character of Political Parties: One of the major problems of political accountability can be attributed to the nature and character of political parties. Political parties have significantly contributed to the political decay in the country. They have failed to guide people at different crucial junctures.

❖ Lack of Effective and Efficient Judiciary: Judiciary, which has an important role in ensuring accountability, the rule of law in the affairs of managing the scarce resources of the state is inaccessible to the people and judicial interventions are also delayed. These are invariably essential for maintaining accountability and transparency in the administration. Though the judges in Bangladesh are independent but in lower courts the judicial magistrates are under the command of Deputy Commissioners. Thus, they regulate their decisions by service conditions like posting, transfer and promotion.

❖ Lack of Credibility of the Electoral System: The electoral system is struggling for its image because it encompasses rigging and manipulation in almost every election it organizes.

❖ Freedom of Expression: Article 39(2) of the Constitution of Bangladesh guarantees:

✓ The right of every citizen to freedom of speech and expression

✓ The right of the freedom of press but still certain black laws and regulation and government control over the medial services hinder free flow of information and freedom of expression.

❖ Lack of Bureaucratic Accountability: Administration authorities need aid anticipated to make responsible of the state funded for at activities they take. Anyway it doesn't happen. Those theory will be not solid sufficient will inquiry people in general officers on the great holders kept all the degree of transparency in choice making may be precise low.

❖ Absence of Advocacy role in Civil Society: The citizen groups have not been able to play a vital role in the determination of public policies and in shaping the behavior and actions of the civil servants. The advocacy roles of citizen groups have been limited to holding meetings and organizing seminars with no follow up actions to determine the impact and recommendations.

❖ Lack of Accommodation of Bureaucrats in the Political Literature: The politicians constantly treat civil servants concerning illustration abhorrent. There will be absence of a dependable attempting connection the middle of the two strong characters for state.

❖ Ineffective Local Government Structure: Local government might assume a huge part on making political leadership, guaranteeing mainstream participation, creating responsible organization and arranging execution. Still, concerning illustration there may be no successful neighborhood government with those assets. What's more ability will would in this way.

Corruption: Defilement may be wild in this nation due to those certainty individuals misuse force without any individual continuously rebuffed for it. It might have been When positioned those A large portion defiled nation on the globe. It ought a chance to be specified here that, those Bangladesh administration need acquainted an Anti-Corruption.
